Now the responsible superiors deny to have done something irresponsible.

I guess that things like these happen again and again. This young woman was only 22 years old. It is a shame.

I am Theresa Roth, the voice you hear on the phone when you call the office. I adore working for T.E.A.M. It is a joy to talk to each of you each day. I truly enjoy learning about all of you and wish I had the time to get to know you on a deeper level.

I'll tell you a little bit about myself. I taught preschool for 14 years. My education is in Early Childhood Development and Children's Literature. I began going to school for a degree towards being a Physician's Assistant but was not able to continue, perhaps one day I will.

I will try to pass on some interesting gems I've learned from children's books along the way.

It being the beginning of summer I bring you a quote from The Little Prince by Antoine de Saint-Exupery, 1943

"What makes the desert beautiful," said the little prince, "is that somewhere it hides a well."

Some weeks ago a young police woman has been shot in Germany during a traffic control. All people are asking themselves, who is responsible for this and for which reason. CANCELLATIONS

Please cancel shifts only when absolutely necessary. When you accept a shift we are counting on you to fulfill your obligation. If you must cancel your shift, you must do so with a minimum of 12 hours notice and you must call the scheduling pager (602-219-8326) and leave a number where the scheduler can reach you. You may not just leave a message saying that you are canceling; you must speak to a scheduler. If you do not call 12 hours before your shift start time, this is considered a no show. You will be asked to account for needing to cancel, and must be able to show proof/ documentation of an emergency to HR, or you will be pulled from your upcoming shifts in the schedule.

Jilly-Beans Corner of Positive Attitude 101

The end of the month is here, and gone. Summer is here and we are still having a problem with guards not bringing water to places like Park and Swap, Cricket, Reach 11 and other venues that are outside. WE LIVE IN THE DESERT! Why is so hard for to remember WATER! Ok I am done with my soap box now. I am not sure if I want to talk about positive attitude this time around or if I want to talk about how to make it in the "Security" world. I guess you could say they both go hand and hand. We will see where this goes?

I am still hearing a lot of guards complaining about not roaming or not being on barricades or why does this person get to do this and I do not, where's my water, can I take a break it is hot out here, I want to go now, what time is this over? I will have to say to a lot of those comments be patient. We all have to understand if Managers or Supervisors do not feel that you are able to roam or a barricade you are not going to be on the barricade or roam. There are a lot of other talent out there we may not understand why but we all play a part with T.E.A.M and were we are strong that is the roll we will be. I understand growth and I understand that those who think they can will try and give it their all however, we are what we are and sometime that is ok.

I am a P.R person, I am a yes person and I am NICE. I do not like to be a hard ass and I do not like confrontations. I must be a nice guy. I think looking around at the talent we have there are not to many who can be that. Everyone wants to be the "kick ass" "throw out" get in the middle of all the scuffles and have war wounds to talk about it later. Me I just go with it. I won't lie- I want to be a part of all that too. I want to eject and get into scuffles and go home to tell my kids what Mom did but really when it all comes down to it I am the person who puts out the fires and apologizes for them being an idiot. I can eject do not get me wrong but I would rather ask them nicely to move on or get out.

The attitude I portray is an attitude of self respect and self control. The way to make it in this business is to keep your eyes and ears open do not go around telling everyone what you would do if? Or what you would do or have done, bragging gets you no place. Listen to those Supervisors and watch what they are doing. Work hard and do not whine that is so not what one does if you want to make it not only in life but at a job. I have 6 kids and I tell them all the time work hard, listen and watch around you because you are being watched not matter what. I can say that the work ethics that have been instilled in them are great and I am proud of them for that. Ride coat tails of those you know have made it in this business understand why they are in the position they are in. Never stop learning and if you do not know something always ask, there is no shame in asking, never act like you know what you are doing..... you will never know how to do it right if you act. To be successful in this business show up on time in proper uniform, be willing to work, have a smile on and work at that position like you are being watched by Mick because you are. Supervisors are the eyes and ears of T.E.A.M and hard work, good ethics will never go un-noticed. Gotta get this to Elizabeth, so until next month, be careful, bring water and thank you for making T.E.A.M what it is without all of you doing a great job accounts would never want us back. I ran into a stranger as he passed by,

"Oh excuse me please" was my reply.

He said, "Please excuse me too; I wasn't watching for you."

We were very polite, this stranger and I.
We went on our way and we said goodbye.
But at home a different story is told,
how we treat our loved ones, young and old.

Later that day, cooking the evening meal, my son stood beside me very still.

When I turned, I nearly knocked him down.
"Move out of the way," I said with a frown.

He walked away, his little heart broken.
I didn't realize how harshly I'd spo-

While I lay awake in bed, God's still small voice came to me and said,

"While dealing with a stranger, common courtesy you use, but the family you love, you seem to abuse.

Go and look on the kitchen floor, you'll find some flowers there by the door.

Those are the flowers he brought for you.
He picked them himself: pink, yellow and blue.

He stood very quietly not to spoil
the surprise, you never saw the tears that filled his little eyes."

By this time, I felt very small,
And now my tears began to fall.

I quietly went and knelt by his bed;
"Wake up, little one, wake up," I said.

"Are these the flowers you picked for me?"
He smiled, "I found 'em, out by the tree.

I picked 'em because they're pretty like you.
I knew you'd like 'em, especially the blue."
I said, "Son, I'm very sorry for the way I acted today.
I shouldn't have yelled at you that way."
He said, "Oh, Mom, that's okay.
I love you anyway."

I said, "Son, I love you too, and I do like the flowers, especially the blue."

As you all know, Memorial day has just past. I hope you all had a great weekend. But I hope even more that you all took a moment to recognize why we have a Memorial day. I saw these soldiers on the news that had fought for our country recently and had lost their legs. All of them were positive and proud that they had served. One of the guys was a fire fighter before he enlisted. He said he didn't know what he was going to do now. But he wasn't complaining. It reminded me of all of the people complaining about the war. That reminded me of the attacks that were made on our country by those cave dwelling, sand eating freedom haters. That reminded me of all of the innocent people that died. That reminded me of all of the soldiers that have died protecting our country. That pissed me off. My flag flew high this weekend, as it always does. I hope all of you took some time, if not but a moment, to remember and show some American pride

This time of the year I am usually hyped up to hit the Jersey Shore bars and beaches. Which brings me to a topic I would like to clarify. I seemed to be getting teased often about being from The Garden State. However, I am quite proud of where I grew up and I would like to share some "facts" about New Jersey. Next to these facts about the wonderful state I put in bold, my two cents.

You know you are from New Jersey when.....

1. You know every famous person who is from Jersey and what part they came from, plus you make it a special point to tell everybody. – Bruce Springsteen is from my hometown of Freehold, Bon Jovi is from two towns over in Sayreville, Jack Nicholson I from Neptune, Frank Sinatra is from Hoboken.....
2. You know that the only people who call it "Joisey" are from out of state. This cliché is so annoying.
3. Every lane is the passing lane (this includes the shoulder) on the Turnpike or Parkway. – Hey, you snooze you lose!
4. Anything less than 3 inches of snow isn't worth your time. If you didn't get a snow day, then it wasn't worth shoveling.
5. You give the horn and the finger after being cut off. – This rule is strictly enforced by the NJ DOT.
6. You still refer to the Continental Airlines Arena as The Brendan Byrne Arena. – Always have, always will.
7. If when you moved out of state and people ask you what you miss about NJ, you say bagels, pizza, heroes (that's subs for you kids playing at home), funnel cake, the shore, and the boardwalk. sniffle
8. You can't believe MTV had their beach house at Seaside Heights. – True Jersey Shore kids know this town as Sleazside and we steer clear of this part of the shore. Fun Fact: The house wasn't real, it was actually a TV set.
9. You didn't understand why Harold & Kumar drove so damn far to find White Castle and couldn't figure out faster routes. – I mean seriously, I did the route in my head while I watched the movie and got there faster.
10. You know where Jimmy Hoffa is buried. Under Giants Stadium ,of course.
11. You know that the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island are IN New Jersey. Another Fun Fact Kids!
12. You are a safe driver in New Jersey, but deadly elsewhere. I told you all there is nothing wrong with my driving and it is legal in N.J.
13. You don't think you have an accent. (Wadder, Cawfee, Dawg, wadever) Everyone in the office disagrees with me on this one! I DO NOT have an accent!!
14. You start planning for Memorial Day weekend in February. This is how this whole article came about.
15. You've gotten into a fight defending New Jersey and how its the best state there is!!! Don't make me go "JERSEY" on you!

And finally...

You've never pump your own gas!!!! (That is what I use Samantha Williams for)

The U.S. Army's Eleven Leadership Principles

- Be tactically and technically proficient

- Know yourself and seek self-improvement

- Know your soldiers and look out for their welfare

- Keep your soldiers informed

- Set the example

- Ensure the task is understood, supervised and accomplished

- Train your soldiers as a team

- Make sound and timely decisions

- Develop a sense of responsibility in your subordinates

- Employ your unit in accordance with its capabilities

- Seek responsibility and take responsibility for your actions

Recently, I had the opportunity to invite a few student employees from ASU to work the Kenny Chesney Concert at Cricket. I would like to share some of their comments with you and hopefully provide an outsiders view on the Security World.

"This is a huge amount of responsibility. How do you coordinate so many different locations and jobs at the same time?"

Answer. Training, a good solid core of supervisors that can take control of a situation and the ability to compartmentalize responsibilities so no one is overwhelmed.

"What do you do when it's over a hundred degrees? I don't see anybody carrying water bottles or canteens?"

All employees are told to bring a water bottle with them. That's why you were told to bring one from ASU. Water is life during the summer and occasionally, someone will go down from dehydration.

"How do the guards handle the drunks? If that were me, I'd kick the _ _ it out of those idiots!"

Training. Training and Training. As I explained to you in the mini orientation, our role here is to provide a safe and enjoyable environment for the clients and customers. Most people do not like being around loud, drunk idiots. By keeping the crowd on your side, it helps in these kinds of situations because you always have someone cover your back. Also note that when a drunk is escorted, it's always done, quickly, quietly and with enough security that the surrounding patrons are only aware of what happened after it's over.

"WOW. So that's what I look like when I get _ _ itfaced."

Hmmm. Moment of epiphany, here.

Keep up the good work. Your presence, professionalism and smiles really do make a difference

Another month has come and gone and as always I'm left wondering where it went. (How many times have we heard that?) I really don't have a whole lot to say this month other than be aware of the heat. We are now in the summer months. It is going to get hotter and we are inevitably going to be in this heat on a regular basis. Bring your water bottles and keep yourself hydrated. Supervisors, keep a close eye on your people for signs of heat stress, and make sure your employees are getting breaks. I look forward to seeing you all in the field.

Summer is such an interesting time in Phoenix. The small bit of grass that exists turns an even duller shade of brown, dogs won't walk on concrete, and the convertible tops go up. Air conditioning is a form of currency it seems; Aloe is God. (anyone who has seen the crew of us that went Salt River Tubing know we would have sold our very souls for Aloe, Aloe, and more Aloe.) The point is that life in Phoenix during the summer requires special needs: more than just SPF 120. Please read some of the other articles for tips and such, and follow the advice, as no one is kidding about the dangers of the heat and the sun.

Thank you to those of you who have been writing commendations on your co-workers. Not only is it nice to hear the good things, but it is helpful and informative in evaluating the progress and aptitude of employees. Again, not everything is a reprimand or commendation, sometimes things just need to field carded as an FYI.

I found the cartoon below, and couldn't resist; my feelings regarding having a sense of humor are well known. Have a good month. PS: please let me know if anyone needs Pav's email down in Australia.---and no, he has not found a Starbucks. Have fun this month.....

Quite often we ask ourselves hard-to-answer questions, like, "What is a sonofabitch?"

And we wax philosophic with metaphysical postulations, incomplete aphorisms and inconsistent sophism that make one more and more sure that the only true thing is that a picture is worth a thousand words.

In this photo, the guy on the right is a member of a bomb squad in midst of a deactivation. The guy behind him, well, he's a sonofabitch.

Mick Hirko

First of all, I would like to thank everybody that showed up at the last supervisor/leadership meeting. It was a great turn out, and I think a constructive discussion.

The month of may has a lot of significant days in it. As I mentioned last month, it is Law Enforcement Officer Appreciation Day and Month, May is the month where the Allies celebrated Victory, ending World War II in Europe, and obviously, we celebrate Memorial Day at the end of May.

To many, memorial day signifies the beginning of Summer, the opportunity to buy things on special sale, have a barbeque and hang out with friends and family. I hope and wish that all of you remember the reason for Memorial Day. Especially at these times, we need to remember each and every soldier, the sacrifices they make, and those, who sadly, died so that all of us can celebrate Memorial Day. Soldiers do not serve their country because of the pay, because it is fun or challenging, not because they like to blow stuff up. They do not do it for any of the reasons that are easily understood. They do it for no greater love and sense of appreciation for what this country stands for, the sense of service to keep our way of life, and out of pride of being a citizen of the greatest Nation on this planet. We have a lot to be proud of, a lot to be thankful for, and should never forget the sacrifices that were, and still are being made to keep us free and safe.

I recently read about a Mesa soldier, who was severely wounded in Iraq, and lost both legs. Brent Bretz lost both legs in combat, and has endured 57!!!! I cannot even imagine that amount of surgery, to regain his mobility and to move on with his life.

His mother stated that : "a lot of people said he lost those two legs, but he gave those in service of our country and for millions of other's freedom".

Bretz said he has no regrets and would do it again. But he has moved on. Brent Bretz is truly a hero, the best this country has to offer, and I hope to some day meet him, to shake his hand and thank him for his sacrifice. We live in a society where a sacrifice is having to wait over 2 minutes for your food in a fast food restaurant, the video store is sold out of your favorite video game, are it took you 10 minutes longer than you planned to get to work. Let's put things into perspective, and remember each and every day what others do to allow you this life. Have some appreciation and give thanks to those who are willing to serve for the amazing things they do for us.

I hope you all rested up the last few weeks that it has been slow, because it is going to start getting very busy real soon. Add our wonderful Arizona summer temperatures, and the next few months are going to be hot, hot, hot!!! A lot of shows, a lot of new stuff, 4th of July celebrations are just around the corner, the Ballpark and Arena events. Flagstaff and Tucson events, and a bunch of new stuff we are working on, just to keep things new and exciting. In the mean time, be safe, keep the Peace, and I'll see you out there.
